

LOVE IS A PATH, NOT A DESTINATION

There is no finish line in love; no “happy ever after”. Love is less of an achievement and more like a way to live.

“Love is an action more than a reward’ to realise love to act on it, service it, and to receive it when it flows your way.”

Commit to a path of love, not a search for it. There is no pot of gold; the rainbow is the reward.”

LOVE ATTRACTS LOVE

Remember, Love, is a verb; let’s always focus on the action. If we want more love, we have to START feeling and accessing more love first; love will attract more love.

“What we are is what we attract. When we love ourselves, we will find love in others.”

SOURCE: Love - as in HOW TO BE LOVE(D), a book by Humble the Poet (aka Kanwer Singh), a Canadian-born artist, rapper, spoken-word poet and author

The book is the work of questions and a questioner, Love, he says: “If we dig to the root reason of why we do anything in our lives, IT’S BECAUSE OF LOVE (capitals, mine).

Of his book, he says, “This book wasn’t a labour OF love, but a reminder that it is a labour TO love.”
